REVISED REGISTER
OF THE
SOLDIERS AND SAILORS
OF
NEW HAMPSHIRE
IN THE
WAR OF THE REBELLION
1861-1866.

PREPARED AND PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY OF THE LEGISLATURE, BY

AUGUSTUS D. AYLING, ADJUTANT GENERAL.

CONCORD:
IRA C. EVANS, PUBLIC PRINTER.

INTRODUCTORY.

Soon after assuming the duties of Adjutant General, in 1879, I realized the necessity for a careful revision of the records of New Hampshire soldiers in the War of the Rebellion, as printed in the Reports of the Adjutant General for the years 1865 and 1866.

These Reports compare favorably with those of other States published at the close of the war, and are, perhaps, as correct as it was possible to make them at the time and under the conditions then existing. They were found, however, to contain numerous errors, and failed in many instances to give some of the most important particulars of a soldier's record.

Attention was called to the importance of such revision, and the urgent necessity for it, in my Annual Reports for 1883 and 1885, and in the latter year the Legislature made provision for the undertaking.

The several Acts under which the work has been carried on are as follows :

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE PUBLICATION OF A RECORD OF NEW HAMPSHIRE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION.

SECTION 1. The Adjutant General shall, as soon as practicable after the passage of this act, under the direction of the Governor and Council, prepare and publish a record of all soldiers and sailors who served in the War of the Rebellion from the State of New Hampshire; such record to contain the name, residence, date of enlistment, to what city or town assigned, date of muster in, rank, promotions, wounds received, date of discharge, muster out or death, date and place of death since discharge, or present residence, and such other facts as shall make the same, as far as practicable, a complete and concise military record of each soldier or sailor so serving; and for this purpose the Adjutant General is authorized to employ such clerical assistance as may be necessary.

SECT. 2. Two thousand copies of said record shall be printed by the state printer and distributed as follows, namely: One copy to each city and town in the State, one copy to each public library in the State, one copy to each Post of the Grand Army of the Republic in the State, fifty copies to the New Hampshire Historical Society, and the remainder to be placed in the custody of the trustees of the state library, who are hereby authorized to exchange the same for similar publications by other States, and to dispose of the same at cost of paper, printing, and binding.

SECT. 3. For the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act, a sum not exceeding twelve hundred dollars is hereby appropriated annually for two years, commencing September 1, 1885, to be expended under the direction of the Governor and Council, and the Governor is hereby authorized to draw his warrant on the state treasurer for the said amount.

SECT. 4. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

AN ACT IN AID OF AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE PUBLICATION OF A RECORD OF NEW HAMPSHIRE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION.

SECTION 1. The selectmen or assessors of each town and city shall, at the same time they distribute the blank inventories for the assessment of taxes for the year 1886, also distribute such blanks as may be seasonably provided by the Adjutant General for the purpose of collecting the information required by the provisions of the act "to provide for the publication of a record of New Hampshire soldiers and sailors in the War of the Rebellion," approved July 23, 1885, and every person having such information shall make answer in writing, so far as possible, to such questions as may be in such blanks, and the same shall be returned and delivered to said selectmen or assessors before the fifteenth day of April, as is provided by law for the return of inventories of taxable property. The papers returned to the selectmen or assessors, under the provisions of this act, shall be returned to the office of the Adjutant General by them within thirty days after said fifteenth of April.

SECT. 2. Any officer or person violating the provisions of this act shall be subject to a fine of fifty dollars for each offense, to be recovered in an action of debt by the Adjutant General, and all sums of money so recovered shall be applied in carrying out the provisions of said act of July 23, 1885.

AN ACT IN AID OF CHAPTERS 12 AND 75 OF THE SESSION LAWS OF 1885, TO PROVIDE FOR A RECORD OF THE NEW HAMPSHIRE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION.

SECTION 1. The record of the soldiers and sailors of this State, to be compiled under the authority of said acts by the Adjutant General, shall contain a statement of the number of men required and the number furnished for the War of the Rebellion by each town in the State under each call; and said record shall also contain the names of all men recruited under the first call in 1861, for three months, whether they were organized into the first regiment of volunteers, mustered out of service without being sent out of the State, or were re-enlisted for a longer term of service. Selectmen of towns and the mayors of cities as may be required shall cause such information concerning soldiers and sailors who are or have been residents of their respective towns as may be required for the purposes of this act, and of the acts of which this is an amendment, to be collected and forwarded to the Adjutant General, subject to such penalties for default as are provided in said chapter 75 of the laws of 1885.

SECT. 2. For the purpose of the continuation of the work required by said acts, a sum not exceeding fifteen hundred dollars is hereby appropriated annually for two years, commencing September 1, 1887, to be expended under the direction of the Governor and Council, and the Governor is hereby authorized to draw his warrant on the state treasurer for the said amount.

SECT. 3. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

— From Pamphlet Laws of 1887, chapter 40.

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE COMPLETION OF THE RECORD OF THE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION.

SECTION 1. For the purpose of continuing and completing the revision of the rolls of the soldiers and sailors of New Hampshire in the War of the Rebellion now in progress under the provisions of chapter 12 of the Laws of 1885, and chapters 40 and 75 of the Laws of 1887, the following appropriations are hereby made, viz.: Five thousand dollars for use in procuring necessary copies and abstracts from the war, navy, and other departments of the federal government, and five thousand dollars for the work of revision in this State; provided, that no part of said sums shall be expended except so much as shall be found necessary for the proper prosecution of the revision, and that said sums shall be expended under the direction of the Governor and Council. The Governor is hereby authorized to draw his warrant on the state treasurer for amounts above stated.

SECT. 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

— From Pamphlet Laws of 1889, chapter 3.

AN ACT TO CORRECT A CLERICAL ERROR IN THE ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE COMPLETION OF THE RECORD OF THE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION, PASSED AT THE PRESENT SESSION.

That whereas in lines five and six of section 1 of the act entitled "An act to provide for the completion of the record of the soldiers and sailors of New Hampshire in the War of the Rebellion," approved July 17, 1889, reference is made to "chapter 12 of the Laws of 1885, and chapters 40 and 75 of the Laws of 1887," and whereas said reference should be to chapters 12 and 75 of the Laws of 1885, and chapter 40 of the Laws of 1887; therefore,

SECTION 1. Said act approved July 17, 1889, is hereby amended so that instead of reading "chapter 12 of the Laws of 1885, and chapters 40 and 75 of the Laws of 1887," in the fifth and sixth lines of the act as engrossed, the reading shall be as follows, viz.: "chapters 12 and 75 of the Laws of 1885, and chapter 40 of the Laws of 1887."

SECT. 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

— From Pamphlet Laws of 1889, chapter 68.

AN ACT PROVIDING FOR THE IMMEDIATE COMPLETION OF THE REVISED RECORD OF NEW HAMPSHIRE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION.

SECTION 1. The revised and corrected record of New Hampshire soldiers and sailors in the War of the Rebellion shall be completed and published by the Adjutant General forthwith, in accordance with the provisions of law already enacted to govern the preparation and publication of the work. Such statistics of regimental losses and other summaries of facts shown by said record as the Governor and Council may deem appropriate, shall be at once prepared and incorporated in the work. For the purposes of this act, a sum not exceeding eight hundred dollars, to be expended under the direction of the Governor and Council, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, but the appropriation shall not be available for any part of said clerical work not completed within six months after the passage of this act.

SECT. 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect upon its passage.

— From Pamphlet Laws of 1893, chapter 17.

Under the authority of the foregoing, the work was commenced and has been pushed as fast as was practicable. Accuracy rather than rapidity has been the governing idea, and no efforts have been spared to make each individual record accurate and complete. Nothing has been taken for granted or without verification, when possible, and the records as they appear are practically official.

The plan adopted of having the names in each regiment alphabetically arranged, instead of by companies, is a new departure and has not been followed by any other State, as yet; but it will, I think, commend itself by the ease and rapidity with which a soldier's name, with his full record, can be found.

Under the old plan if an officer was promoted or transferred to another company, or a soldier received a commission, it was necessary to look in two or more places to trace him, and every additional promotion or transfer necessitated a further search in order to learn his whole military history.

In this work, the complete record of an officer or soldier, in a single regiment, is given in one place, regardless of the number of promotions he may have received, or of the different companies in the regiment to which he may have been transferred; if a man served in two or more regiments, a cross reference showing the fact appears with his record in each regiment. In addition to the military record of each man, the Register shows the birthplace, age at enlistment, residence at enlistment, and when possible the town where credited on quota; which information, constituting an interesting and important part of a soldier's history, has not been given in full in the publications of this or any other State, thus far. The last known post-office address of each surviving soldier is given whenever it could be obtained, and the dates and places of death of those who have died since muster out or discharge.

It has been deemed advisable, although the acts providing for the work do not require this, to preface the register of each organization with a short sketch, by its own authorized historian, as in most instances, or by some prominent member thereof.

The official dates of the muster in and muster out of each organization are also given; the several brigades, divisions, and corps to which it was attached are shown, and a summary which is made as full and comprehensive as possible follows each register.

In the revision of the records the first step was to verify the spelling of names. This was done by comparing them with the signatures on the original enlistment papers, or by correspondence when the papers were missing. Then came the examination of Muster in Rolls, original Rosters of Companies, Detachment Rolls, Monthly Returns, Reports of Deceased Soldiers, Reports of Casualties, and Muster out Rolls. The Pay Rolls and Bounty papers in the office of the State Treasurer were also found to contain information of much value.

In addition to the official sources of information utilized, circulars were sent to every city and town in the State, and to the Posts of the Grand Army of the Republic; files of newspapers of the war time and town and county histories were examined, and every authority possible was consulted. The officers in charge of the National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers throughout the country very kindly furnished lists showing all New Hampshire soldiers residing at the Homes, and giving dates of decease of those who died while inmates.

In a number of instances when the muster out roll reported men as "absent no discharge furnished," or "not officially accounted for," the original discharges have been obtained from the soldiers, and the fact and date of discharge shown.

In many cases of incomplete or incorrect records there was nothing in this office from which the deficiency could be supplied; nearly 15,000 individual records were sent to Washington, some of them several times, and in nearly every case the information necessary was obtained from the war or navy department or second auditor's office. In this way a number of men who appear in the old reports as deserters or as not officially accounted for, were found to have been regularly discharged.

It was not practicable to send all cases of reported desertion to Washington, but where there was a possible doubt as to the correctness of the report, it was referred to the proper department, and thus many names were cleared from the stain of dishonor.

Undoubtedly some men are reported as having died of disease when the first, although perhaps not the immediate, cause of death was a wound. This is unavoidable from the nature of the official report, but when possible, corrections have been made.

The state records showing the town quotas were not carefully kept during the first year of the war, consequently the places to which men were credited cannot always be given, but when it could be determined this is shown.

No correct lists of the engagements or battles of New Hampshire regiments have heretofore been published, those given on the flag cases containing the colors of the "War Regiments" being incomplete and inaccurate, and without dates.

Following the sketch of each organization will be found a revised and corrected list of the engagements in which it participated, with the proper dates. These lists have been made with great care and after much correspondence and research; for purposes of verification extensive use has been made of the "Official Records of the Rebellion," published by the Secretary of War, and finally the lists were submitted for approval to the historians of regiments or to regimental committees. When battles were officially or popularly known by two or more names, all are given.

The register of the "Dartmouth Cavalry," so called, is given for the reason that no record of New Hampshire's war history would be complete without it. This company, although not properly a New Hampshire organization, was composed so largely of students of Dartmouth College as to acquire the name of that venerable institution. Its official designation was Company B, Seventh Squadron, Rhode Island Cavalry, and to Gen. Elisha Dyer, Jr., Adjutant General of Rhode Island, I am greatly indebted for his courtesy in furnishing the records of the company.

This State has no records of enlistments in the United States Navy or Marine Corps, and the only way by which they could be obtained was through clerks in the Navy Department and at Marine Corps Headquarters, who were specially engaged to furnish the material used in the Register. There was no way, however, to verify the records thus obtained or to discover and correct possible errors, clerical or otherwise.

Under the head of "Miscellaneous" is given, as far as they could be obtained, the names and service of citizens or residents of New Hampshire who served in the United States Army, United States Volunteers, and in organizations from other States.

I am indebted to so many for valuable assistance, advice, and encouragement in the preparation of this work, that it is impossible to particularize in every instance; but to Mr. Harry P. Hammond, who has been my chief clerk almost from the first, I am especially indebted for his valuable suggestions and intelligent coöperation, and I desire to express my appreciation of his faithful and untiring efforts to make the Register accurate and complete.

I am also under especial obligations to Hon. Albert S. Batchellor for his assistance in procuring necessary legislation, and for suggestions, counsel, and encouragement; to Gen. J. N. Patterson, late Second Auditor of the United States Treasury, through whose kindly interest many difficulties were overcome and data of the utmost importance obtained; to Mr. Solomon E. Faunce, of the Second Auditor's office, for the personal interest he manifested in the work and his untiring efforts to complete each soldier's record; to Col. Frederick C. Ainsworth, Chief of the Record and Pension Division, War Department, for many courtesies and most valuable assistance in completing records.

I tender my thanks to the regimental historians who have been willing and anxious to render all the assistance in their power, and who have freely furnished all the information in their possession.

It is not claimed that this work is free from errors or omissions, but to secure accuracy and completeness all has been done that fidelity and perseverance, inspired by enthusiastic interest in the subject, could accomplish.

AUGUSTUS D. AYLING,
Adjutant General.

FIRST REGIMENT NEW HAMPSHIRE VOLUNTEER INFANTRY.

(THREE MONTHS.)

By STEPHEN G. ABBOTT, Chaplain and Historian First Regiment New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry.

WHEN President Lincoln called for 75,000 men for three months to suppress the Rebellion, New Hampshire responded with an alacrity unsurpassed by any of the States. The proclamation was issued the 15th of April, 1861. Enlisting stations were immediately improvised, and between the 17th and the 30th not less than 2,004 men were enrolled.

The residue, after filling the First Regiment, were given their choice to enlist in the Second Regiment or serve out their time of three months as the garrison of Fort Constitution at Portsmouth harbor. Four hundred and ninety-six enlisted in the Second Regiment, and the remainder were sent to Fort Constitution.

The First Regiment rendezvoused at Concord on the Fair Grounds of the Merrimack County Agricultural Society on the east side of Merrimack river, the camp being christened "Camp Union." But a few days passed before the material of the regiment was crystalized into a completely appointed and equipped organization. A contract for fifteen army wagons and one hospital ambulance was placed with the firm of Lewis Downing & Son, of Concord. A supply of horses, averaging in cost $125, was speedily purchased, and the contract for harnesses was filled by James R. Hill, of Concord. So well, thoroughly, and expeditiously was this work performed, that on the 14th day of May, just fifteen days after his appointment, Quartermaster Batchelder informed the colonel that the regiment was uniformed, armed, and equipped, and field transportation for tents, baggage, and supplies was ready.

From the 1st to the 7th of May the regiment was mustered into the service of the United States. Baldwin's Cornet Band, of Manchester, under the leadership of Edwin T. Baldwin, joined the regiment early in May, and served until the regiment was mustered out; but as the law made no provision for regimental bands, the members were not mustered in until vacancies occurred in companies, when they were mustered in as privates or company musicians but continued to do duty in the band.

On the 25th of May, after appropriate public ceremonies, the regiment boarded the cars for Washington amidst the adieus and cheers of a vast concourse of citizens. At Manchester and Nashua it was greeted with similar demonstrations. An almost continuous ovation was tendered the regiment en route to Worcester, where it received a right royal welcome and was served to a princely repast.

The regiment arrived at New York, May 26, where it was received by 450 citizens, all sons of New Hampshire, and presented by them with an elegant silk flag.

The regiment arrived in Baltimore on May 27, and marched through the city to the Camden station to the tune of "Yankee Doodle," the first national air played in the streets of the city after the passage of the Massachusetts Sixth.

The regiment arrived in Washington at 1.30 o'clock A. M., May 28, and in the morning marched to "Kalorama," their camping ground, named "Camp Cameron." It was reviewed from the porch of the White House by the President, who soon after sent a special messenger to the camp to inform the colonel that his was the best appointed regiment that had thus far come into Washington.

In anticipation of Confederate forces at Leesburg, Va., crossing the river into Maryland, a brigade was formed and placed under the command of Col. Charles P. Stone, consisting of the First New Hampshire Volunteers, Ninth New York Volunteers, First Pennsylvania Volunteers, four battalions of District of Columbia Volunteers, and a small force of cavalry and artillery, with orders to march up the river, take possession of Edward's Ferry and Conrad's Ferry, and guard the river. On June 10 the brigade marched to Rockville, Md., and after a short rest on the Montgomery County Fair Grounds, christened "Camp Lincoln," on the 14th proceeded to Poolsville, arriving there June 15. Four companies of the First were sent to Conrad's Ferry, four miles from Poolsville, and from this point the river was guarded for many miles during the encampment.

July 3 the regiment marched to the Monocacy, eight miles, where it spent the Fourth, naming the locality "Camp Goodwin." On the 5th the regiment marched to Point of Rocks, six miles, giving the camp the name of "Camp Berry." From this point the tents and unnecessary baggage were sent to Frederick, Md., and the regiment resumed its march to Williamsport, passing through Sharpsburg and Sandy Hook, opposite Harper's Ferry, arriving at that place July 7, twenty-four miles from Point of Rocks.

The next morning the brigade marched for Martinsburg, Va., twelve miles, arriving there about noon of the same day, where it joined the Army of the Shenandoah under the command of General Patterson, making an army of about 25,000.

The approaching battle of Bull Run rendered it eminently important that General Johnston should be intercepted and prevented from joining in the engagement. This work was intrusted to General Patterson, but for reasons which may never be explained, instead of receiving in the morning marching orders, it was suddenly decided that there should be no movement until further orders. A subsequent investigation of the matter resulted in the superseding of General Patterson by Gen. N. P. Banks.

On Monday morning, the 15th of July, the entire command, consisting of twenty-seven regiments and six hundred wagons, were on the march. The wildest enthusiasm prevailed among the troops when they found themselves on the road to Winchester. Bunker Hill, ten miles from Martinsburg, was reached about 2 o'clock the same day, and all were elated with the prospect of soon standing between General Johnston and the enemy at Manassas. The day was spent with only a feeble reconnaissance in the direction of Winchester, when on the morning of the 17th a retreat was commenced to Charlestown, twelve miles further removed from Winchester. The camp at Charlestown was christened "Camp Whipple." On the night of the 20th the first intelligence of fighting at Bull Run was received and was confirmed the next morning. July 21 the division marched to Harper's Ferry, six miles, and encamped on Bolivar Heights.

On the 24th Gen. N. P. Banks arrived on the ground, and much to the joy of the army—at least of the First New Hampshire Regiment—relieved General Patterson.

On the 28th of July the First Regiment New Hampshire Volunteers moved across the river and went into camp. On the second day of August their term of enlistment expired, and they made no delay in embarking on board the cars for home. They were paid off and mustered out, mostly on the 9th of August, and discharged at Concord.

The First Regiment New Hampshire Volunteers did no fighting, excepting the exchange of shots at intervals for two days across the river at Conrad's Ferry. In this affray none of our men were hit. The rebels admit one captain and two privates killed and about twelve wounded. The regiment, however, did a large amount of guard duty, a service, which, though unattended with much eclat, may have accomplished as great good as a victory on the field of blood and carnage. The regiment did faithfully all that was required of it.

If, as a regiment, its history is meagre, its individual members have an enviable record. Not less, probably, than five hundred members re-enlisted in subsequent military organizations. The First was represented in every regiment and every military organization of New Hampshire. Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, and New York regiments contained more or less members of the New Hampshire First, all of whom left a record of which the State may well be proud. Many of them sealed their loyalty and patriotism with their blood, or returned disabled for life. The names of Whipple, Stevens, Crosby, Batchelder, Fellows, Hazelton, Bell, Sturtevant, Clough, Drew, Dudley, and Kelly, as representatives of many others, will ever have an honorable place in the history of the Great Rebellion and a large place in the grateful memory of their fellow citizens.

The First Regiment New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry was attached to the Department of Washington May 27, 1861; to the Seventh Brigade, Third Division, Department of Pennsylvania, July 10, 1861.

SECOND REGIMENT NEW HAMPSHIRE VOLUNTEER INFANTRY.

(THREE YEARS.)

By Hon. MARTIN A. HAYNES, late Private Second Regiment New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry and Historian of Regiment.

A LARGE proportion of the original members of the Second Regiment were enlisted for three months' service under President Lincoln's first call; many of them among the earliest recruits in April, 1861. But early in May, while the regiment was still in camp at Portsmouth, orders were received from the War Department to send no more three months' troops. Most of the men thereupon enlisted for three years, this second muster by companies dating from June 1 to 8. The regiment left Portsmouth June 20, receiving at Boston on the same day, and at New York on the 21st, tremendous ovations from the Sons of New Hampshire and the local authorities.

The regiment arrived in Washington on the afternoon of the 23d, and was brigaded with the First and Second Rhode Island and the Seventy-first New York, the brigade commander being Col. Ambrose E. Burnside. This constituted the Second Brigade of Hunter's division, and opened the fight at the first Bull Run battle, July 21. Colonel Marston was severely wounded here, and the regiment's loss was reported as 7 killed, 56 wounded, 46 missing. Early in August the regiment went into camp at Bladensburg, Md., being brigaded with the First and Eleventh Massachusetts and Twenty-sixth Pennsylvania, under command of Brig. Gen. Joseph Hooker. During the winter of '61-2 the brigade camped at Budd's Ferry, Md., constituting the First Brigade of Hooker's division, which had been placed there as a corps of observation over the rebel blockading batteries extending several miles along the Virginia side of the Potomac.

The division embarked on steamers for Yorktown, April 5, 1862, the First Brigade being then commanded by Gen. Cuvier Grover, Hooker in command of the division, and Heintzelman of the corps (Third). The regiment performed the customary siege duty before Yorktown until the morning of May 4, when the rebel defenses were discovered to have been evacuated. Within an hour Hooker's division was pushing in pursuit, and at daylight the following morning impetuously attacked the rebel rear guard at Williamsburg. After a most obstinate and sanguinary struggle the Excelsior and New Jersey brigades were beaten back, when the entire Second Regiment was deployed as skirmishers to cover the line of two brigades, and maintained a savage bush fight for two hours, until relieved by the arrival of Kearney's division. The Second Regiment lost 18 men killed, 66 wounded, 23 missing.

On the last day of May, when Casey was overwhelmed at Fair Oaks, Hooker's division was at Poplar Hill, a few miles distant. The Second and Third Brigades took part in the second day's fight, and June 3 Grover's brigade also advanced to Fair Oaks. June 23 five companies of the Second, with some Massachusetts troops constituting the picket line, advanced as skirmishers, driving the rebel pickets a considerable distance towards Richmond. One man of the Second was killed and several wounded in this little affair. Two days later the battle of Oak Grove was fought, when Hooker advanced over the same ground, crushed all opposition, and was only prevented from essaying the defenses of Richmond by McClellan's timidity. The Second's loss was about 70 men — the heaviest falling upon Company B, which had 22 men killed and wounded out of 42.

In the "change of base," Hooker's division abandoned the works and camps at Fair Oaks, June 28. At Savage's Station, the same day, the Second supported, with but slight loss, a battery posted to sweep the railroad towards Fair Oaks Station. It lost several men, wounded, at Glendale on the 29th, but its part of the line was not assailed at Malvern Hill on the 30th. In Hooker's movement to re-capture Malvern Hill, August 4 and 5, the Second had one man killed and several wounded by shell.

On the evacuation of the peninsula, Hooker's division marched to Yorktown, took boats to Alexandria, and from there by rail to reinforce Pope, arriving at Warrenton Junction on the night of August 25. On the morning of the 27th, Stonewall Jackson's raid on our communications was developed, and the division pushed for Manassas Junction, the Second throwing out skirmishers and leading the column. Ewell's division of Jackson's corps was encountered at Kettle Run, near Bristoe Station, and driven towards Manassas Junction on the jump.

On the forenoon of the 29th, Grover's brigade arrived upon the field near Groveton, where Jackson was at bay, and reported to General Sigel. Under peremptory orders to "carry the railroad embankment with the bayonet," it went forward into the woods, entirely unsupported, and charged the rebel position. The Second crashed through two lines in a headlong, hand-to-hand dash, but could not hold its ground. Out of 332 men, the regiment reported 16 killed, 87 wounded, 29 missing. The death-roll was actually 35, as finally established. At Chantilly, September 1, the Second covered the road, on Kearney's left, but was not brought into action. During the Antietam campaign, the division, now commanded by Sickles, lay in the Washington defenses, and late in November joined the army at Falmouth. The Third Corps was now under Stoneman, Hooker commanding the centre grand division. The First Brigade, to which the Eleventh New Jersey had been added, was commanded by Gen. Joseph B. Carr. The Second's participation in the battle of Fredericksburg was confined to skirmishing, its position being two miles below the city, and it lost but 5 men wounded.

February 26, 1863, the regiment started for New Hampshire. It was given a rapturous reception in Manchester and Concord, and the men were freely furloughed to their homes. The regiment was reinforced by 94 men recruited for the Seventeenth Regiment, and on the 25th of May set out to rejoin the army. The regiment was temporarily attached to Casey's division, Twenty-second Army Corps, for about two weeks, and then to Third Brigade, Second Division, Third Corps (Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth New Jersey, and One Hundred and Fifteenth Pennsylvania), commanded by Col. George C. Burling, Sixth New Jersey. At Gettysburg, July 2, the Second was, early in the action, detached from the brigade and reported to General Graham, First Brigade, Second Division. The regiment's desperate defense of the angle at Sherfy's peach orchard made that a historic point of the field. It took in 24 commissioned officers and 330 enlisted men. Three officers were killed and 18 wounded — 4 mortally. Seventeen enlisted men were killed, 119 wounded, and 36 missing. The killed and mortally wounded aggregated 56.

July 23, when the Third Corps forced a passage through Manassas Gap into the Shenandoah Valley, the Second supported the Excelsior Brigade, and the following day, deployed as skirmishers, it led the corps to Front Royal. July 26, at Warrenton, with the Twelfth New Hampshire, it was detached from the army and sent to Point Lookout, Md., to establish the great prison camp. The Fifth New Hampshire subsequently arrived, and the district (St. Mary's) was placed under command of Gen. Gilman Marston. The regiment was on duty here until April 8, 1864, when it went by boat to Yorktown to join Butler's "Army of the James," then assembling. Desertions by "bounty jumpers" becoming numerous, four were executed shortly after arrival at Yorktown.

The regiment was attached to the Second Brigade (Wistar's) Second Division, Eighteenth Corps, the brigade consisting of the Eleventh Connecticut, Second and Twelfth New Hampshire, and Forty-Eighth New York. In the advance from Bermuda Hundred towards Petersburg, on the 8th of May, the regiment lost 1 man killed and 6 wounded. In the "fog fight" of May 16, in front of Fort Darling, the regiment repulsed repeated assaults with frightful loss to the enemy, although its own loss was but 4 killed and 14 wounded. May 29 the Eighteenth Corps was dispatched by boat around to White House to reinforce the Army of the Potomac. It joined Grant at Cold Harbor, June 1, and the Second had several men wounded by shells on that day. The next day it took part in the bloody and unsuccessful assault of the rebel position, and the regiment lost 2 officers and 6 enlisted men killed, 3 officers and 66 men wounded, and 1 missing.

June 9 the original men, not re-enlisted, marched from the trenches on their way home, and were discharged at Concord, N. H., June 21. The original Second New Hampshire fitly crowned three years of glorious service at Cold Harbor. It was also the last great pitched battle in which the regiment actively participated. The regiment was at once detached from the brigade for temporary duty at Eighteenth Corps headquarters. From August 18 to September 1 it was in the trenches before Petersburg, losing more or less men almost every day. Then it reported to General Marston, commanding the defenses of the James from City Point to Fortress Monroe. It was efficiently employed in various minor raids until the 1st of October, when it rejoined the Eighteenth Corps, being assigned to the Third Brigade of its old division. October 27 it joined in a heavy reconnoissance near the Williamsburg road, and lost several men. In November the Twenty-fourth Corps was formed of the white troops of the Tenth and Eighteenth Corps, the Second being assigned to the Third Brigade of the Third Division. This brigade, during March, 1865, was engaged in raids in various directions in Chesapeake waters, and established the base of supplies for Sheridan's raiders at the White House. From there it marched with Sheridan to rejoin the main army. In those early April days when Lee's army was annihilated, the Second was in position where it had only to await the evacuation of Richmond and then march in.

June 21 the Tenth, Twelfth, and Thirteenth New Hampshire were mustered out, and the recruits whose term of service did not expire before September 30, about 400, were transferred to the Second. The rebellion having collapsed, the Second was scattered throughout several Virginia counties on provost duty. Finally, on December 19, 1865, the regiment was assembled at City Point and there mustered out of the United States service. On the 21st it started for New Hampshire, where it received a greeting commensurate with its four years and six months of heroic service.

Any sketch of the Second Regiment would be incomplete without mention of Miss Harriet Patience Dame, the faithful army nurse. Miss Dame was born in North Barnstead, N. H., January 5, 1815. In 1856 she became a resident of Concord, and at the time the Second Regiment was being organized, had already commenced her good work of caring for the sick. When the regiment left for the front, the physicians in Concord could not spare her to accompany it; but a few days later she joined the command at Washington, and served with it, except when on duty at some field hospital, until it was mustered out in 1865, tenderly ministering to the sick and wounded, full of courage and hope amidst the dead and dying, and always unwearied in caring for "her boys," regardless of her own health or comfort. The sincere respect and affection, not only of the men of the Second but of all New Hampshire regiments, is surely hers.

In 1867 Miss Dame was appointed to a clerkship in the Treasury Department, in Washington, which appointment she still holds.

The Second New Hampshire Volunteers was attached to and joined the Department of Washington, June 23, 1861; Hooker's brigade, Army of the Potomac, August 12, 1861; First Brigade, Hooker's division, Army of the Potomac, October 3, 1861; First Brigade, Second Division, Third Army Corps, March 16, 1862; Department of the East, March 3, 1863; Casey's division, Twenty-second Army Corps, May 27, 1863; Third Brigade, Second Division, Third Army Corps, June 14, 1863; District of St. Mary's, Department of Virginia and North Carolina, July, 1863; Second Brigade, Second Division, Eighteenth Army Corps, April 23, 1864; Eighteenth Army Corps (Corps Headquarters), June, 1864; First Brigade, First Division, Eighteenth Army Corps, August 13, 1864; Department of Virginia and North Carolina, September 1, 1864; Third Brigade, First Division, Eighteenth Army Corps, October 7, 1864; Third Brigade, Third Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, December 2, 1864; First Independent Brigade, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, July 10, 1865; Sub-District of Essex, District Northeast Virginia, Department of Virginia, August, 1865.

SECOND REGIMENT NEW HAMPSHIRE VOLUNTEER INFANTRY.

(THREE YEARS.)

Mustered into the service of the United States May 31 to June 10, 1861, at Portsmouth, by Seth Eastman, Maj. 5 Inf., U. S. A. Organization completed, with exception of muster in of Band, June 10, 1861. The Band was mustered in August 7, 1861, at Washington, D. C., by John Elwood, 1 Lt. 5 Inf., U. S. A., and mustered out August 8, 1862, near Harrison's Landing, Va., by S. Lee Perkins, 1 Lt. 2 Inf., N. Y. Vols. The recruits transferred from the 17 N. H. V., April 16, 1863, were mustered out October 9, 1863, at Concord, N. H., by Joseph H. Whittlesey, Maj. 5 Cav., U. S. A. The original members who had not re-enlisted were mustered out June 21, 1864, at Concord, by Charles Holmes, Capt. U. S. A., retired. The re-enlisted men and recruits were mustered out December 19, 1865, at City Point, Va., by J. Remington, Capt. and A. C. M., Dept. of Va. Each man was a volunteer appointed or enlisted for three years, unless otherwise stated.

THIRD REGIMENT NEW HAMPSHIRE VOLUNTEER INFANTRY.

(THREE YEARS.)

By DANIEL ELDREDGE, late First Lieutenant Third Regiment New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry and Historian of Regiment.

THIS regiment was the second to be raised in the State for a three years' term. It was brought together and wholly organized and mustered in during August, 1861, at Concord. Those men whose dates of enlistment were earlier than the large majority were from Hampton and its vicinity, and were in temporary service at Fort Constitution, Portsmouth, and known as "Winnacunnet Guards." These were later the majority of Company D; Companies A, C, and H were almost wholly from Manchester; Company K was largely from Dover; Company F nearly all from Nashua and its vicinity; Company G largely from Ossipee and neighboring towns; Company E from Milford and vicinity; Company B from Exeter and its immediate neighborhood; Company I from Rochester and adjacent towns. One company (C) was almost wholly of Irish birth or parentage. The regiment was encamped upon the "intervale" nearly opposite the southerly part of Concord, and upon the easterly side of the Merrimack river. Enoch Q. Fellows, of Centre Sandwich, was the person selected to be its Colonel. He was a West Pointer, and had been with the First New Hampshire (three months' men), and was possessed of military skill and a military presence. John H. Jackson, of Portsmouth, was made Lieutenant-Colonel. He had been an officer in the Mexican war, and had been brevetted there for gallantry. John Bedel, of Bath, another Mexican soldier, was given the position of Major, while the Adjutancy was bestowed upon another Mexican soldier, Alfred J. Hill, of Portsmouth. The regiment started upon its mission September 3, 1861, proceeding by rail to Allyn's Point, Conn. (via Worcester), where it took steamers to Hunter's Point, L. I., thence a few miles by rail to Mineola, which village was upon the large plain called Hempstead Plain, as that place was designed to be a camp of instruction for the several regiments intended to participate in a coastwise expedition. September 14, 1861, the regiment was ordered post-haste to Washington, and arrived there the 16th, going into camp east of the Capitol near the almshouse and jail. There the regiment stayed and drilled till early in October, when it was ordered to Annapolis, Md., where it and other regiments were to embark on their perilous errand. About the middle of October the embarkation took place, and the fleet concentrated at Fortress Monroe, from which place the final start was made the 29th of October. Gen. Thomas W. Sherman, commanding the expedition, was quartered upon the steamer "Atlantic" with the Third New Hampshire. In sailing, the "Atlantic" was given the post of honor, following the stately "Wabash." After the taking of Port Royal, S. C. (November 7), the regiment landed and remained on the island of Hilton Head till April, 1862.

A reconnoissance to Dawfuskee Island by the major part of the regiment occurred in March, 1862, and another reconnoissance was made to Bluffton and to Bull and Savage Islands, also in March, 1862. Early in April, 1862, the regiment was ordered to Edisto Island. The headquarters were established in the west central part of the island at Dr. Mitchell's plantation. Some of the companies were detached for plantations near by. During April, 1862, several reconnoissances were made to Jehossee Island. Early in June the regiment was ordered to James Island. It reached there only to find that the place was very near Charleston and was well guarded. Here the regiment had its first baptism in blood, 16th of June, 1862, Secessionville. Loss 105, killed, wounded, and missing. James Island was evacuated about the 1st of July, 1862, the regiment returning to Hilton Head, encamping in rear of the General Hospital. But a few days elapsed ere the regiment was almost wholly ordered to various outposts, and continued in that duty till the capture of Company H, August 21, 1862, when the companies were all ordered to reunite at Hilton Head.

The next move of importance was the attempt to burn a bridge at Pocotaligo (C. & S. R. R.), October 22, 1862. The regiment participated—wounded 3. Early in January, 1863, a large detachment was sent to Florida to assist in capturing a large lot of lumber; expedition failed; wounded, 3. During February, 1863, the regiment again divided, six companies going to Pinckney Island; two remained in camp; one on provost guard; and the other on Hilton Head, but near the six companies. Early in April, 1863, started again for Charleston, but only to lie at anchor in Stono Inlet, while the naval engagement of April 7, 1863, was enacted. Shortly after, returned to Hilton Head again, but not to stay. Embarked again in April, 1863, and finally landed (eight companies) at Botany Bay Island, S. C. Companies E and I were landed at Bay Point, where they remained till early in June, when all concentrated at St. Helena Island. There the troops were organized and drilled for another onward movement. Left St. Helena, July 4, 1863, and landed on Folly Island. The lower end of Morris Island was taken early July 10, 1863, the Third New Hampshire participating. The regiment also was support next morning for an unsuccessful charge on Wagner. The duties on Morris Island were very heavy, and from the day of landing there until the 29th of February, 1864, when the regiment left, there was an almost unceasing demand for the various kinds of duty. In the charge on Fort Wagner, July 18, 1863, the regiment lost heavily. Its duties during the siege of Wagner—ending September 7, 1863—were extremely severe, but somewhat lighter after that date. It had the post of honor on that memorable 7th of September, 1863. Shortly after the evacuation of Wagner, the regiment was ordered upon provost duty, as a respite from excessive duty in the trenches. Several of the regiment were recipients of the Gillmore medals, bestowed by General Gillmore for good conduct during the siege. These medals were of bronze and bore upon one side a representation of Sumter in ruins, while the other bore a fac simile of the General's official signature. The medal proper was attached to a bar, upon the face of which was engraven the name, rank, company, and regiment of the recipient. February 29, 1864, the regiment was ordered to Hilton Head to be mounted, and received its horses within a few days thereafter.

Meantime large numbers of the men had re-enlisted, and those went on their furloughs in a body, early in March, 1864, accompanied by eight officers.

The regiment was then mounted, and was designated "Third New Hampshire Mounted Infantry." They were ordered to Florida early in April, 1864. Encamped near Jacksonville. Soon after, four companies were sent up to Palatka, and returned therefrom in about a week. In the latter part of April, 1864, orders were received to dismount the regiment and prepare to go to Virginia. The regiment reached Virginia prior to the first of May, 1864, and were there joined by the re-enlisted men, who had been detained by the War Department until the arrival of the regiment. Then began the Virginia campaign, and the regiment had its full share in nearly every engagement of that period. At Drewry's Bluff, May 13, 14, 15, and 16, 1864, the regiment suffered heavy losses in both officers and men. May 18 and June 2 and 16 were all memorable days, and resulted in a further decimation of the regiment. The 16th of August, 1864, seemed the culmination, for on that day the regiment was well-nigh annihilated. Soon after (the 23d), the original men who had not re-enlisted, were mustered out. These away, and the regiment was small indeed—but a mere handful. In the latter part of August, 1864, the regiment was ordered to the line in front of Petersburg, and did duty there until the latter part of September, 1864, when it was ordered to the other side of the James river. There it was engaged September 29, and October 1, 7, 13, 27. In November, 1864, the regiment was sent to New York city, to defend the ballot box against a possible enemy, returning to its camp at Laurel Hill, Va., before the close of the month. There the regiment was apparently laid by for the winter; but in January, 1865, following the failure of the first expedition to Fort Fisher, the regiment was called upon to form part of the infantry force for a second attempt to capture that stronghold. The regiment went, and it is history that it was a part of the brigade finally called on to put an end to the struggle that had been waging for hours. It next distinguished itself at Sugar Loaf Battery, February 11, 1865, and next at Wilmington, February 22, 1865, entering that city with the other troops, having fought their way to it, only to find it abandoned at the last moment. The regiment did all sorts of duty at Wilmington, and at Goldsboro', N. C., to which latter place they went early in June, 1865, and there were finally mustered out July 20, 1865. At the two latter places the officers and men were placed on duty in many places of great honor, trust and responsibility.

The regiment returned to Concord the latter part of July, 1865, were temporarily furloughed, and were finally paid August 2, 1865.

Original, 1,035, officers and men. Additions brought total to 1,769.

The Third New Hampshire Volunteers was attached to First Brigade, Sherman's Division, Expeditionary Corps, September 18, 1861; Headquarters Brigade, First Division, May 23, 1862; Second Brigade, Second Division, June 21, 1862; First Brigade, July 26, 1863; detached from First Brigade to perform provost duty, October 19, 1863; First Brigade, November 23, 1863; Second Brigade, First Division, Tenth Army Corps, May, 1864; Second Brigade, First Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, December 3, 1864; Tenth Army Corps, March 27, 1865.

FOURTH REGIMENT NEW HAMPSHIRE VOLUNTEER INFANTRY.

(THREE YEARS.)

By FRANCIS W. PARKER, late Lieutenant-Colonel Fourth Regiment New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry, and Brevet Colonel United States Volunteers.

TWO hundred men were left over in organizing the Third Regiment, and they were ordered from Concord to Manchester, to form the nucleus of the Fourth Regiment. The Fourth Regiment consisted mostly of natives of New Hampshire, with the exception* of Company G, which was made up of stout-hearted Irishmen. It is said that the majority of the regiment were Democrats, politically. Quite a number of the officers had been officers in the New Hampshire militia, notably Colonel Drew, Captains Sleeper, Greenleaf, Newell, Bagley, Burley, and Badger. The first colonel, Thomas J. Whipple of Laconia, was a veteran of the Mexican war. Three lieutenants came from Dartmouth College, — Fuller, Carleton, and Kendall; one lieutenant, Parker, was a school-teacher from Illinois; the lieutenant-colonel, Bell, was a young lawyer. Company A enlisted at Dover; Company B, at Nashua; Company D, at Laconia; Company F, at Great Falls; Company H, at Salem; Companies C, E, G, I, and K, were mostly Manchester men. A part of Company E was enlisted at Pittsfield.

The regiment was mustered into service at Manchester the 18th of September, just two weeks after the Third had left the state. The regiment left Manchester for Washington the 27th of September. There it remained until the 9th of October, when it joined Gen. T. W. Sherman's expedition to Port Royal, S. C. It embarked on one of the great ships of the fleet, the "Baltic," a side-wheel steamer, suffered a terrible storm of three days off Hatteras, and a severe fright in striking on Frying Pan Shoals; arrived at Port Royal November 4, and saw from the ship's masts the attack upon Port Royal, the demolition of Fort Walker and the capture of Hilton Head.

Here upon the sands on the beach of Hilton Head, close to the roaring surf, the regiment remained for three months, varying the monotony of camp life by an expedition to Tybee Island on the 3d of December. On the 26th of January the regiment embarked on ships, and started for the expedition on the Southern coast. It took part in the capture of Fernandina, Jacksonville, and St. Augustine. Seven companies garrisoned at St. Augustine, while the other three companies remained at Jacksonville during part of the summer.

In September the regiment was ordered to Beaufort, S. C., and General Mitchell assumed command of the department. Active operations began which resulted in the battle of Pocotaligo, on the 22d of October. The regiment went into winter quarters at Beaufort. The monthly return of the regiment for September, 1862, after a year's service, shows 630 men and 21 officers present for duty, the actual loss for the year being 189, or nearly one-fifth of the active number.

The spring of 1863 opened with an attack upon Morris Island, then followed the siege of Charleston. Gen. Q. A. Gillmore commanded the expedition. The division in which the Fourth New Hampshire found itself was commanded by Gen. A. H. Terry. The Fourth brigaded with the Third New Hampshire, Sixth Connecticut, and a battalion of sharpshooters. This brigade was commanded by Col. Louis Bell of the Fourth. Two long sand-bar islands on the coast just south of Charleston harbor formed the basis of an attack upon Charleston. Folly Island was captured with very little resistance. The Fourth New Hampshire worked twenty-one nights in building batteries to attack Morris Island, which is separated from Folly Island by a narrow creek. On the 10th of July the Fourth participated in an attack on Morris Island. The successive charges on Fort Wagner were repulsed by the enemy. On the 23d of July the Fourth dug the first trench and planted the first chevaux-de-frise, for the long siege of Fort Wagner. From the 23d of July to the 7th of September may be looked upon as one continued battle under the blazing sun of South Carolina, — digging trenches, advancing lines, repelling attacks and doing severe out-post duty.

The morning of September 7, when the line was formed for the final charge, the news came that the fort was evacuated. The capture of Fort Wagner resulted in the immediate capture of the whole island. Then from the 7th of September to the 15th of January, 1864, the regiment took part in the siege of Charleston.

Under the guns of the enemy, 388 men re-enlisted for three years, or during the war. The enlisting officer was Capt. F. W. Parker. The regiment returned to Beaufort, S. C., once more, then formed part of the expedition up the Savannah river. It was afterwards ordered to Jacksonville, Fla., to support General Seymour, who had been repulsed at Olustee. Once more the regiment was returned to Beaufort.

In the spring of 1864, the re-enlisted veterans, under command of Colonel Bell, were furloughed. On the 12th of April, the remaining detachment, under command of Lieutenant-Colonel Drew, was ordered to report to Major-General Butler, commanding the Department of Virginia and North Carolina. It landed on Gloucester Point, York river, where the furloughed veterans joined them. Gen. Adelbert H. Ames commanded the division.

On the 4th of May, the Army of the James sailed by the James river, for an attack upon Bermuda Hundred, the famous "bottle," or neck of land south of Richmond. Bermuda Hundred was taken and immediately fortified. The first advance movement was made upon the enemy on the 9th of May. General Ames' division tore up several miles of the Richmond & Petersburg Railroad, and then, by a hasty march, joined the Eighteenth Corps at Swift Creek, where the enemy was attacked, and after a sharp fight driven to the defenses of Petersburg, on the Appomatox. At night the rebels, in turn, charged upon our lines, but were severely repulsed. While preparing to renew the advance in the morning, heavy firing was heard in the direction of General Terry's command, which had been stationed at Lempster Hill, to repel any advance from Richmond. General Ames' division immediately joined General Terry's command, and the whole Army of the James moved "on to Richmond."

The two armies met at Drewry's Bluff. There on the 14th, 15th, and 16th of May, the Fourth New Hampshire was in action. On the 16th, the regiment formed part of a line of advanced skirmishers. In the morning of that day, the enemy broke through our lines, doubled them up, and the Fourth Regiment was left alone, a thin line of skirmishers in the advance without flankers. A brigade suddenly appeared on the right of the line, and the regiment was to all intents and purposes captured, but in their innocence of capture they suddenly retreated. The loss at Drewry's Bluff was great. Company E went in with 42 men, and lost 28 killed, wounded, or missing. Lt. Frank Hutchinson fell while firing his revolver within a few feet of the enemy; Maj. Charles Sawyer received a wound which caused his death. General Butler was driven back from Bermuda Hundred again and "bottled up." Several ineffective attempts were made to break the Confederate line.

On the 28th of May, the division under General Ames was ordered to report to Gen. W. F. Smith, of the Eighteenth Corps. The corps was ordered to report to General Meade, commanding the Army of the Potomac. It was taken by transports to the White House on the Pamunkey river, and took part in the battle of Cold Harbor on the 3d of June. Eight days of living and fighting in trenches followed, and on the 12th, it marched with the army in its change of position to the right bank of the James river.

On the morning of the 16th of June, the attack on Petersburg commenced. The Regiment was engaged in the first attack upon Petersburg. Colonel Bell's brigade took 125 prisoners and several pieces of artillery. Then began the siege of Petersburg. The siege of Charleston had prepared the Fourth Regiment for the duties of trench and fortification work. For thirty-six days Colonel Bell's brigade remained in one position — on the left of Fort Stedman and joining the right of the Ninth Corps. The picket line of the brigade was within twenty feet of the Confederate outpost. The regiment lost 50 men killed or wounded while performing ordinary trench duty.

The Fourth New Hampshire was again brigaded under command of Colonel Bell with the Thirteenth Indiana, Ninth Maine, One Hundred and Fifteenth New York, and Ninety-seventh Pennsylvania. The division was commanded by General Turner.

On the 30th of July, the regiment was in the Crater Fight, or the battle of the "Mine." For hours it held the line on the right of the exploded fort close to the ravine, across which came a terrible enfilading fire from a battery. The regiment was quite small — 200 men — and out of this number 50 men were killed or wounded. Captain Clough was severely wounded, and Captain Parker took command of the regiment. In the fight the flag-staff was cut off twice, and fifty-five bullets and shells put through the flag. That night, what was left of the regiment marched back to Bermuda Hundred.

On the 13th of August, a movement was made under Gen. W. S. Hancock north of the James river. The Tenth Corps crossed the river and began a series of skirmishes which culminated on the 16th of August in a severe battle, with Gen. Robert E. Lee in our front. The battle is called, generally, the battle of Deep Bottom. Deep Bottom is situated at the rear of Malvern Hill. Three commanders of the brigade were wounded in succession — first, Colonel Osborne, of the Twenty-fourth Massachusetts, then Major Walrath, of the One Hundred and Fifteenth New York, followed by Captain Parker, of the Fourth, who received a very severe wound in the neck. Captain Hobbs, of Company A, took command of the regiment and the Tenth Corps withdrew to Bermuda Hundred. A captain was in command of the brigade, and only one captain was left for duty in the Fourth.

On the 18th of September, 174 men, who had not re-enlisted, left for New Hampshire, under command of Lieutenant-Colonel Drew. In the spring of '64, the regiment was 1,000 strong. At the charge of Fort Gilmer (or New Market Heights), only 40 men could be mustered for the fight. Sergt. Willard K. Cobb, of Company E, who had just recovered from a severe wound, was killed. The Fourth was under the command of Lt. John H. Roberts.

The regiment was in the two expeditions against Fort Fisher — the first under General Butler, and the second under Gen. A. H. Terry. In the second and successful attack on Fort Fisher, the Fourth Regiment did some brave fighting. Colonel Bell, commanding the brigade, was killed on the corduroy road leading to the gate of the fort. In the long struggle in the fort under command of General Ames, the flag of the Fourth New Hampshire was locked with the Confederate flag on the top of a mound for twenty minutes. Capt. John H. Roberts was in command of the regiment during the fight. The night of the victory, a number of the Fourth New Hampshire were killed by the explosion of a magazine.

The regiment remained at Fort Fisher until the 11th of February. Captain Parker was commissioned Lieutenant-Colonel, returned from the hospital and took command. The Army of the Ohio, under General Scofield, advanced upon Wilmington and captured it. General Sherman was steadily advancing from Savannah. The Army of the Ohio and Sherman's Army joined at Cox's Bridge, near Goldsborough. The Fourth New Hampshire was ordered to guard the railroad between Wilmington and Little Washington, in order to forward supplies to Sherman's Army. After this duty was done, the regiment was ordered to rendezvous at Magnolia. Colonel Parker and Adjutant Challis were captured near Magnolia, and spent the rest of their time with the Army of General Johnston in its retreat to Greensborough. The regiment was quartered at Raleigh, N. C., until ordered home. They arrived in Concord and were mustered out on the 23d of August.

This is a brief compendium of the history of the regiment — so brief that no personal mention can be made of bravery and endurance on the part of many heroes of the old Fourth still living, and of those, the larger number, who await us at the final roll-call beyond the lines of earth.

The Fourth New Hampshire Volunteers was attached to, and a part of, Sherman's Expeditionary Corps, October 28, 1861, to March 31, 1862; at various stations in Department of the South, March 31, 1862, to April, 1864; First Brigade, Third Division, Tenth Army Corps, April 25 to June 19, 1864; Third Brigade, Second Division, Tenth Army Corps, June 19 to December 3, 1864; Third Brigade, Second Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, December 3, 1864, to April 2, 1865; Third Brigade, Second Division, Tenth Army Corps, April 2 to July 13, 1865; First Brigade, Second Division, Tenth Army Corps, July 13 to August, 1865.

FIFTH REGIMENT NEW HAMPSHIRE VOLUNTEER INFANTRY.

(THREE YEARS.)

By WILLIAM CHILD, late Surgeon Fifth Regiment New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry, and Historian of Regiment.

THE Fifth Regiment was organized at Concord, the men being enlisted for three years. Edward E. Cross of Lancaster was appointed colonel, August 27, 1861, and at once entered upon the duties of the office. The regiment camped east of the Merrimack river, near the lower bridge, the camp being called "Camp Jackson." Company A entered camp September 28, 1861, and the regimental organization was completed October 26. Colonel Cross was an experienced Indian fighter, and had been in the Mexican service, and his experience was valuable in organizing and disciplining the regiment. The renown gained by this organization is the heritage of no single locality, for its members were gathered from all parts of the State.

The regiment received its colors October 28, 1861, and the next day left for the front, arriving at Bladensburg, Md., October 31, when it was assigned to the First Brigade, Casey's Division, Army of the Potomac. While at Bladensburg the regiment made a severe march to Lower Marlborough, to disperse armed bodies and prevent disturbance at the elections.

The regiment was assigned to the First Brigade, Sumner's Division, Army of the Potomac, November 27, 1861. It marched through Washington and Alexandria, Va., November 28, and the next day camped near Alexandria, the camp being called "Camp California," where it remained until March 10, 1862. While here the regiment furnished men for scouting parties and picket duty, received instruction in engineering work, and was thoroughly drilled and disciplined. On the 10th of March, 1862, it left "Camp California," and on the 14th was assigned to the First Brigade, Richardson's Division, Second Army Corps. It participated in a reconnoissance to the Rappahannock river, March 28. On the 11th of April the regiment was at Ship Point, near Yorktown, Va., and April 25 was temporarily detached from its brigade to construct siege material for the siege of Yorktown, upon which duty it was engaged until May 4, when the enemy evacuated the city.

May 28 and 29, under direction of Colonel Cross, and assisted by details from the Sixty-fourth New York Volunteers and the Irish Brigade, the Fifth built the noted "Grape-vine Bridge" across the Chickahominy river. The other bridges having been swept away by a freshet, Sedgwick's Division crossed "Grape-vine Bridge," May 31, in time to check the advance of the Confederate army in its pursuit of the Federal troops, thus saving the Union army from a disastrous defeat.

On the night of May 31, the Fifth took position on the field of Fair Oaks, and the next day forty of its members were killed or mortally wounded. Here the regiment remained, skirmishing and doing picket duty, until June 28. During the next three days it was engaged at Peach Orchard, Savage's Station, White Oak Swamp, and Malvern Hill, after which it camped at Harrison's Landing, Va., until August 16, the Band being mustered out on the 8th of August.

At South Mountain the Fifth was in the reserve; but at Boonsborough, September 15, it was in the advance of the army, and two days later performed marked service at Antietam, losing in killed and wounded more than one third of those present. In the official reports, the Fifth is given the credit of having discovered and frustrated the attempt of the enemy to turn the left of the Second Corps.

On the 2d of November the regiment skirmished at Snicker's Gap, Va. It was assigned to the First Brigade, First Division, Second Army Corps, November 12, remaining in that brigade until July 27, 1863.

On the 12th of December, 1862, the Fifth marched into Fredericksburg, and on the next day met with a fearful loss in its charge on Marye's Heights. Six color bearers were shot down, and of nineteen officers present, eight were killed or mortally wounded, and five others wounded. The dead of the Fifth were among the few found near the stone wall, so noted in that battle. In his official report, General Hancock said: "Col. Edward E. Cross, commanding the Fifth New Hampshire Volunteers, severely wounded, behaved in the handsomest manner. The conduct of his regiment was heroic. Refusing to yield any ground, his brave officers and men died where they stood."

The winter of 1862-63 was spent in camp near Falmouth, Va. The regiment left camp April 28, 1863, and was at Chancellorsville from the 1st to the 5th of May.

On the 7th of June a detail of about one hundred and thirty men formed a part of the picked force of infantry which accompanied the cavalry of the army, and acted as its support in the fight at Beverly Ford and Brandy Station, Va., June 9. The detail joined the regiment June 17, at Sangster's Station. On the 2d and 3d of July the Fifth lost heavily at Gettysburg, Pa. Colonel Cross, who was commanding a brigade, was mortally wounded on the 2d of July, and died that night at 12.30 o'clock.

About the 1st of August the regiment was ordered home to recruit, arriving at Concord August 3. Returning to the front, the regiment landed at Point Lookout, Md., November 14, where it remained until May 27, 1864, guarding rebel prisoners.

On the 1st of June, 1864, the regiment joined the army near Cold Harbor, and was assigned to the First Brigade, First Division, Second Army Corps. On the 3d of June, at Cold Harbor, it maintained its old fame, losing on that day forty-six killed or mortally wounded. Here the regiment charged, entering the rebel works, but was compelled to fall back, the troops on its flanks having failed to break through the rebel lines. The Fifth remained in the works at Cold Harbor until June 12, suffering constantly from the enemy's fire.

On the 16th of June the regiment charged on the enemy's works at Petersburg, and was engaged in front of Petersburg until July 26, being in the Jerusalem Plank Road fight June 22.

The James river was crossed July 26, and the regiment was engaged at Deep Bottom the next day, being mentioned in orders by General Hancock for its "gallantry in the capture of the enemy's battery."

The regiment re-crossed the James July 29, and on the 30th arrived in front of Petersburg, participating in the siege until August 12, when another march was made across the James; on the 16th it was engaged at Deep Bottom; and on the 25th, at Ream's Station. Arriving at the old camp-ground in front of Petersburg, August 27, the regiment was engaged in the siege until the city was evacuated.

On the 15th of October the regiment was placed in Fort Stedman, remaining there until about November 15, when it was relieved and moved to the rear.

In November, the regiment having been reduced below the minimum number necessary for a regiment, by the discharge of the original members, whose time expired October 26, became an eight company battalion, the members of Companies D and K being transferred to the other companies.

About the 1st of December, the Fifth was placed in Fort Welch, and on the 8th and 9th of December took part in the reconnoissance to Hatcher's Run, Va. Returning to Fort Welch, it remained there until February 5, 1865. Companies F and G, Second United States Sharpshooters, were transferred to the Fifth, January 30, 1865. During the remainder of February the headquarters of the corps was near the Wilkinson house. A slight loss was sustained at Fort Stedman March 25. During March most of the time was devoted to preparation for the final struggle.

During the last of March the Army of the Potomac began the operations which culminated in the surrender of Lee's army. In these operations the Fifth took an active part, being engaged at Dinwiddie Court House, Va., March 31, and at Sailor's Creek, Va., April 6.

At Farmville, Va., April 7, the Fifth made its last charge. The enemy was strongly posted, and the ranks of the Fifth withered away until when it reached the last slope within a few feet of the enemy's works, the colors, supported by only a handful of men, were captured by the enemy, who dashed out in overwhelming numbers, and but few of those near the colors escaped death or capture. On the next day the colors and the prisoners lost with them were re-captured. On the 9th, Lee's army surrendered.

On the 23d of May the Fifth marched in the grand review of the Union army at Washington, and on the 28th of June was mustered out near Alexandria, Va.

The regiment was ever under excellent discipline, and was thoroughly prepared for any duty it might be called upon to perform. Hardly any writer, in describing the great battles of the Army of the Potomac, fails to mention the Fifth New Hampshire Infantry and the important services it rendered.

The following is from "Regimental Losses in the American Civil War, 1861-65," by William F. Fox, Lt. Col. U. S. Vols.:

"The one regiment in all the Union armies which sustained the greatest loss in battle during the American Civil War was the Fifth New Hampshire Infantry. * * * It served in the First Division, Second Corps. This division was commanded successively by Generals Richardson, Hancock, Caldwell, Barlow, and Miles; and any regiment that followed the fortunes of these men was sure to find plenty of bloody work cut out for it. The losses of the Fifth New Hampshire occurred entirely in aggressive, hard, stand-up fighting; none of it happened in routs or through blunders. Its loss includes eighteen officers killed, a number far in excess of the usual proportion, and indicates that the men were bravely led. Its percentage of killed is also very large, especially as based on the original enrollment. The exact percentage of the total enrollment cannot be definitely ascertained, as the rolls were loaded down in 1864 with the names of a large number of conscripts and bounty men who never joined the regiment. * * * Known to the corps and division commanders as a reliable regiment, it was the more often called upon to face the enemy's fire, or assigned to the post of danger."

The Fifth New Hampshire Volunteers was attached to First Brigade, Casey's Division, Army of the Potomac, October 31, 1861; First Brigade, Sumner's Division, Army of the Potomac, November 27, 1861; First Brigade, Richardson's Division (became Hancock's Division September 17, 1862), Second Army Corps, March 14, 1862; First Brigade, First Division, Second Army Corps, November 12, 1862, to July 27, 1863; at Concord, August 3, 1863; in District of St. Mary's, Department of Virginia and North Carolina, November 13, 1863; First Brigade, First Division, Second Army Corps, June 1, 1864.
